

Bug A-Boo

Peggy Eakins is one of several students at Wake Forest University who have spent part of their spare time in recent days combing the campus for insects — flying, crawling, squiggly insects — that they need for an entomology class. And from the look on Peggy's face, she couldn't be happier with her find—or could she?

Sentinel Photos by Ed Caram

