Danny Dalton

Dalton assumes duties

Danny Dalton, a native of Bowling Green, Ky., assumed his duties as associate pastor at Rich Fork Baptist Church Jan. 5.
He is a graduate of Western Kentucky University and received special training at Southeastern Bible College. His first position was interim pastor at Highland Baptist Church in Kentucky. Dalton was also involved in youth-led revivals and crusades traveling through Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, North Carolina and Florida. The groups were led by teams of college students who were members of Glendale Baptist Church in Bowling Green.

Dalton served pastorates in Virginia and Florida before accepting the position at Rich Fork.

He married Malinda Butler in 1969 and moved to Temple Baptist Theological Seminary. While at Temple, he worked at WDYN, a Christian radio station.

The Daltons have two sons, John Mark and Timothy Duane. The family was honored recently with a reception in the Rich Fork Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.
