The Rev. Glenn Dancy, Wilkes Native, Named To Ministers' Board

The Rev. Glenn Dancy III, a native of Wilkes County, has been named to the Campbell University Board of Ministers. The Rev. Dancy, 47, is currently the pastor of the 300-member Monticello Baptist Church in Statesville, where he has served for the past five years.

The Campbell board consists of 135 ministers from the Carolinas and Virginia who meet at least once a year, with called meetings at other times. Board members advise university officials and help to spread the school's name.

Approximately 2,000 students attend Campbell University.

The newest member of the board is the son of Frances and Glenn Dancy II of Hays. He is married to the former Linda Smoot, the daughter of Thelma Smoot of Hays and the late Cleo Smoot. The Dancy's daughter, Melissa, is a 1989 graduate of Campbell College.

The Rev. Dancy was a teacher and assistant principal at Mountain View Elementary School in Hays for seven years, and he later served for more than 11 years as the community school administrator for Wilkes Community College. He is a graduate of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in business education social studies and economics, and elementary education. He studied theology and Greek at the West Lenoir Baptist Institute and received a general diploma in theology from the West Lenoir Baptist Ministries in 1987.

The former educator is vice president of the South Yadkin Ministers Conference and has served the Stone Mountain Baptist Association as chairman of the ordination committee and as a member of the evangelism committee.
