

DEC 29 93

291 Three new staff members have been added to the team at the Counseling Center of Iredell.

Ervin Mac Funderburk Jr. was named executive director of the center. He brings with him 30 years of experience in the delivery of health and human services, supervision and administration.

FUNDERBURK

Funderburk received his BA in psychology from Wake Forest University and his MA at the School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is certified as a clinical social worker by the state.

Funderburk, in turn, announced two more additions to the Center's staff.

Lee Roche' has joined the center as a certified substance abuse counselor. He received a BS degree from Appalachian State University and a master of divinity from the Southeastern Theological Seminary in Wake Forest.

Roche' has also done post-graduate work in counseling and psychology at ASU and received additional training from the School of Pastoral Care at Baptist

ROCHE'

Hospital in Winston-Salem. He has served as a substance abuse counselor at several similar organizations.

Rebecca A. Jones, a native of Iredell County, was appointed to the position of support services manager.

JONES

She received her BA in industrial relations from UNC.

Jones brings to the center her experience in business office operations she received from various positions held in Mooresville and Statesville.