Washington Pastor To Lead Religious Emphasis Services

Dr. Pruden Will Speak
Morning and Evening,
Monday to Friday

Dr. E. H. Pruden, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Washington, D. C., will lead the Religious Emphasis Week on the Wake Forest campus, beginning Monday.

Dr. Pruden will speak each morning and night at the Wake Forest Baptist Church for five days beginning Monday. It is planned that the student body will attend the morning services during chapel period. In order to give more time for the chapel period, approximately five minutes will be taken from each morning class. Dr. Pruden will also lead discussions in the various rooming and fraternity houses every night at 10 o'clock by invitation.

Attended Edinburgh

Dr. Pruden, who attended Edinburgh University in Scotland, Richmond University, and Louisville Seminary and was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, is described by Mr. Olive, pastor of the Baptist Church in Wake Forest, as having "an able and pleasing personality."

Mr. Olive states that the Religious Emphasis Week will climax the college's religious program for this school year. "This is one of the most important weeks in the life of each student," he said, "and the main thing we want to accomplish is to put the proper emphasis on the importance of religion in the life of each student."

Mr. Olive attributes much of the growing interest in the religion of the campus to the more formal and systematized chapel programs. Dr. Pruden, a native of Chase City, states that the only pastor he ever had was a Wake Forest man, and that he is therefore imbued with many of the college's traditions.

Dr. Smith Begins Glee Club Duties

Group Now Plans to Give Concert in the Spring

Dr. Frederick Stanley Smith, of Raleigh, assumed direction of the glee club at its meeting on Tuesday. Dr. Smith, who is the director of public school music in the Raleigh schools and also director of music of the First Baptist church there, will meet the glee club twice a week at its regular time for the quarter.

An ensemble of approximately eight pieces taken from the orchestra will continue rehearsals on Tuesday nights. Prof. John Freeman of the chemistry department will work with the group.

A concert is being planned for the last of the quarter which will feature the glee club, ensemble, octet and soloists.

Garden Club Visits Local Civic Club

The Garden Club was the guest of the Civic Club last evening at its monthly meeting. Don P. Johnson, president, presided. The subject for discussion was "The Physical Appearance of Wake Forest," in which different members and guests offered suggestions for the betterment of the town's appearance.

Let's get hep tonight at the Student Council party! 9 o'clock.

Tuberculin Test

On Tuesday, April 25, the tuberculin test will be given at the College Infirmary. This test will be compulsory for all students. On April 27 the reactions will be read by Dr. Mackie, and on May 5 X-rays will be given to students who have positive reactions.

Those who are candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science are: Myrtle S. Batts, Margaret Carroll, J. B. Cook, Jr., Olive Crews, Willie Ruth Edwards, J. E. Evans, Jr., J. C. Hamrick, F. G. Harris, W. H. Johnson, H. T. King, C. V. Liles, Anna Moore, W. G. Padgett, C. C. Parker, J. P. Swain, Jr., and J. W. Bryan.

Cow Path Fines And New Walks To Perk Campus

Student Council and The Grounds Committee In Beauty Drive

The Student Council and the Building and Grounds Committee are cooperating in a campaign to beautify the campus by planting grass in the paths worn across the campus and laying new walks in necessary places.

New walks are being laid across the campus between the Medical Building and the library, and between the infirmary and the Administration Building. As yet, no definite date has been set for the completion of these walks because of the shortage in materials.

The Council has announced that there will be definite action taken against any students found walking on the grass and fines will be assessed. Many of the old paths have been plowed up, and grass has been planted. Other dirt paths have not been worked as yet, and until they have been planted in grass or brick walks have been laid, it will be permissible to use them.

The Council urges the Student body to sit on the grass in the evening and listen to the music from Wait Hall. However, it also urges the students to help in the elimination of unsightly paths by staying off the plowed paths and by refusing to take unnecessary short cuts to class.

Boy Scout Court Set For Sunday

Three Members Are To Receive Star Scout Rank

A Court of Honor will be held by the local Boy Scouts at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon when nine members of the troop will receive a total of fifteen merit badges for various phases of Scout work. The Court will be in the Church basement.

The Scouts who will receive badges are: Bobby Black in pioneering in first aid; Henry Cooper in first aid, safety, and pioneering; Eddie Folk in first aid, safety, and athletics; Haywood Gay in firemanship; Frank Lide in first aid and pioneering; Grady Patterson in civics; Clayton Reid in automobilism; Truett Tanner in safety; and Watson Wilkerson in safety.

Star Scouts

Three of the Scouts will receive insignia recognizing their advancement to the rank of Star Scout. These are Truett Tanner, Bernard Sutton, and Eddie Folk.

The Scouts were given rigid examination in their badge work last Monday by four members of the Scout committee, Dr. E. E. Folk, Dr. L. O. Rea, Prof. W. F. Clonts, and Mr. G. S. Patterson. The Scoutmaster is Jimmy Lee, junior from Goldsboro.

College Dads Call Greek Sons Back Home To Simmons

Above is a picture of "A Mexican Woman", an oil painting, lent to the Museum of Art by the artist, Miss Mary Pritchard Taylor. Exhibited with others of Miss Taylor's paintings in New York, and elsewhere in several later showings, the painting has been acclaimed by art critics as an excellent example of interpretative portraiture.

Interesting Painting Will Be Shown Here

Miss Mary Taylor's "A Mexican Woman" In Museum

Many Wake Forest students and townspeople will remember having seen "A Mexican Woman" in the interesting collection of Miss Mary Taylor's paintings exhibited in Wait Hall last summer.

A native of Wake Forest and a daughter of a former president of Wake Forest College, Miss Taylor directs the work in art at Coker College, Hartsville, S. C. She has studied under Wayman Adams, famous contemporary portrait painter, and much of her own recent creative work has been in portraiture. A notable example of her work is a portrait of her father, presented to Wake Forest College, and now in the foyer of Wait Hall.

When Miss Taylor was visiting in Wake Forest recently, Professor Aycock was pleased to learn from her that "A Mexican Woman" was then in Wake Forest. She generously agreed to his request that she lend the painting to the Museum of Art, where it is now on exhibit.

When asked for a comment on the painting, Professor Aycock, Curator of the Museum, replied, "It has a vitality and eloquence found only in the best interpretative portraits."

THE HOWLER?

When's The Howler coming out? The staff isn't quite sure yet, but it won't be long. The page proofs are back from the printer's, and, with luck, The Howler should be out within the next month.

Copies of any pictures taken by the photographer may still be ordered at any time from Lib Jones, Alice Lee Harris or Dr. Parker

Center Section of Hunter Also Will Be Occupied By Fraternity

Simmons Dormitory and the Gamma Eta Gamma section of Hunter Dormitory will be turned over to the fraternities June 12, 1944, according to a letter received by E. B. Earnshaw from the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees Wednesday morning. The coeds will receive Bostwick Dormitory.

The statement climaxes a three week's campaign by the fraternities, led by the Pan Hellenic Council, for re-admission to Simmons and Hunter Dormitories. Previously the College had announced that Simmons Dormitory would be used for housing the coeds. Much credit for acquiring the two dormitories was given to a petition, submitted by the Pan-Hel Council to the Executive Committee, in which was embodied the idea that the fraternities would collapse without adequate segregation. The petition maintained that such segregation could be found only in Simmons Dormitory and the Gamma Eta Gamma section.

Earnshaw Writes

A letter written by Mr. Earnshaw to the various fraternities states, "In response to the petition of the Pan Hellenic Council, I am authorized by the chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees to say that arrangements have been completed for Simmons Dormitory and the Gamma Eta section of Hunter Dormitory to be turned over to the fraternities on June 12, 1944." Most of the letter was concerned with financial arrangements, the most important of which is the statement that there will be no charge for the chapter rooms during the war.

The question has now arisen as to which fraternities will receive the sections in Simmons. The letter from the Bursar to the fraternities states that the fraternities will decide on the different sections by agreement or lot, giving former occupants the privilege of returning to old quarters. As yet no action has been taken by the fraternities to clear this issue up.

P.-T. A. MEETING

The local P.-T. A. will meet at 3:30 Monday afternoon in the High School Library.

'Dark Victory' Cast Announced

Harris and Parker Are To Play Leading Roles

The cast for the Little Theater spring production, Dark Victory, was announced Tuesday by the director, Clarence Bowen, and rehearsals were begun Tuesday night.

Those taking part are as follows: Dr. Frederick Steele will be portrayed by Dr. Herman Parker, professor of physics. Though Dr. Parker's last dramatic experience goes back to his high school days, he is very enthusiastic and promises to give a good performance.

Miss Wainwright, Dr. Steele's nurse and assistant, will be played by Emily Crandall. Emily is to be remembered for her humorous performance of Lizzie in The Bat. Dr. Parsons will be taken by R. H. Brantley. "Hoey" has played several minor roles at Wake Forest.

Judith Traherne, who plays opposite Dr. Steele, will be taken by Alice Lee Harris. Alice Lee directed Ah, Wilderness and The Bat. She is to be remembered for the Ah Love; Oh Boy; Oo Girls; Aw Nuts!

—by Lib Jones—

It's Spring! The flowers are beginning to blossom, the leaves are appearing on the bushes, the grass is assuming a new greenness, sap is rising in the trees.

It's Spring! Couples may be seen strolling hand in hand under the magnolias or gazing into each other's eyes over coles between classes. Romances are springing up like mushrooms.

If love makes the world go 'round, Wake Forest should be whirling like a dervish. Mr. Snyder, bookstore philosopher, is quoted as saying, "There's love all over the campus. It's getting gruesome." And Mr. Snyder, who has admirable opportunities of observing the students ("lucky man?"), added that proportionately there seemed to be more romances than usual on the campus, and they seem to be more serious.

Definitions Don't

In an experimental mood the reporter determined to find out, "What is this thing called love?" Definitions did not suffice. "Love is a feeling you feel when you feel a funny feeling that you've never felt before." "Love, like a cough, can't be hidden." "O, love, love, love! Love is like a dizziness; it wanna let a poor body gang about his bizziness." "Love is like medicinal science—the art of assisting nature." "Love is awful as immortal death."

So the reporter decided to ask from those who should know.

The first couple approached was Lib Bryan and Heyward Smith. "What is love? It's indescribable," said Heyward. He added that romance calls for action. Lib reported that summer haircuts offer a serious threat to romance.

"Yes," sighed Helen Crutchfield as she thought of Ray O'donnell, "it's very nice to be wearing a fraternity pin. But people ask so Get Groovey, Guys, Gals!

The Student Council is sponsoring a party tonight at the Community House. This party will be along the same lines as the previous parties, and there will be dancing and other forms of entertainment. The council has purchased a group of twenty new records for the occasion. Refreshments will be served, and the council has promised that there will be plenty for all.

The last party was a huge success, and the council hopes that the students will come out in large numbers. There will be a small admission charge of 15c a stag and 25c a couple. The council is planning to sponsor such parties on every convenient weekend from now until school is out, if there is enough interest shown. Come on boys and girls, join the festivities tonight at the Community House.

Renewing Our Faith

Next Monday an outstanding and prominent Baptist leader, Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, will arrive on our campus to take charge of the annual Religious Emphasis Week. Every student will have an opportunity to hear him and to take part in the outlined events which will take place.

The main purpose of Religious Emphasis Week is to stress the importance of religion in our every-day life. Too often we lose sight of the true meaning of our Christian doctrines in the mad rush of college life; too often God and the Church fade into the background, and our ideals and inner experiences are momentarily forgotten.

The services which Dr. Pruden will conduct next week will give the students an excellent opportunity to clarify many issues which present themselves from day to day. They will help them to determine just what the Christian life has to offer to the individual and to the group.

Religious Emphasis Week affords the opportunity to strengthen convictions, and to obtain spiritual guidance. Religion is a necessary part of each of our lives, and the intensive study which will be held on our campus next week can be a great aid in bringing forth the inner man and in renewing our faith in God.

Shun Those Paths!

This old question concerning campus beautification has been rehashed and re-rehashed, but again it meets the public eye—this time in the form of new walks and the planting of grass.

Have you noticed the lumbering tractor that has been plowing up various parts of the campus this week? And have you noticed the large piles of bricks here and there? Well, there's a reason why the campus is being dug up, and those bricks are certainly not placed in those formidable piles purely for decorative purposes.

The Building and Grounds Committee has again set out to lay some new walks and to cover up the thousand and one little paths that have sprung up all over the campus. Can't you just picture how it will look when it's all finished? Can't you just close your eyes and imagine seeing nothing but fresh green grass, with neatly laid brick walks leading hither and yon? Pretty, isn't it?

But how can this ever be accomplished if the students—yes, and the faculty, too—continue to dash from one class to another with no thought of using the walks? You may think that taking a short cut across the grass just one time won't hurt at all, but what if 350 students had the same idea?

The Student Council is behind the plan a hundred per cent. They voted to collect 50 cents from any person seen walking on the grass, and they're not kidding! So watch your step there, and cooperate with the Committee in charge and the Student Council. It's through cooperation that wars are won, touchdowns are scored, victories are gained, and that greener grass grows!

Pvt. John W. Gibson, Jr., class of '44, is stationed at the Lincoln Army Air Field, Lincoln, Nebraska. He writes, "Since I left school in the spring of 1942, I have often recalled the wonderful days spent on the campus at Wake Forest where I was enrolled in the class of 1944. When I have completed my service in the Army, I hope to some day complete my education at the finest college in North Carolina."

With The Men In Service

Lt. John T. Cochran, class of '44, of Fairfield Highlands, Bessemer, Ala., was a member of the 24th class of aviation cadets to graduate from the Columbus Army Air Field near Columbus, Mississippi, on April 15, 1944. He received the silver wings of a Flying Officer and commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces.

Lt. Cochran, better known on the campus as "Red", entered pilot training last July, 1943, and attended flying schools at Albany, Georgia, and Greenwood, Mississippi, before his graduation at the advanced flying school near Columbus, Mississippi.

Lt. Robert O. Hipps, of Asheville, was a member of the 24th class of aviation cadets to graduate from the Columbus Army Air Field near Columbus, Mississippi, on April 15, 1944. He received the silver wings of a Flying Officer and commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces.

Lt. Hipps started his pilot training last July 1, 1943. He attended flying school at Douglas, Georgia, and Macon, Georgia, before his graduation at the advanced school near Columbus, Mississippi.

Sgt. Elmer "Buck" Jones, of Buffalo, N. Y., reported for duty at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School this week, as drill instructor with the Marine Aviation detachment. He will aid in the military training of the cadet regiment in the rigorous pre-flight program.

"Buck" played three seasons of football on the Wake Forest team during Lt. Jim Weaver's regime at Wake Forest. Last season he played with Franklin and Marshall V-12 grid machine. While at Wake Forest he was an All-Southern selection.

Lt. Hillis R. Ellington, class of '32, is stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., with the Artillery Battalion Training Center. He has been in the Marine Corps for eight years and has spent seventeen months in the Southwest Pacific.

Lt. Ellington received his LL.B. degree here in 1935.

A-C Hollis Thomas Fuller, class of '41, has entered the Army Air Forces Training Command School at Yale University for aviation cadet training in Communications. Upon successful completion of this course he will be commissioned a second lieutenant and assigned to active duty with the Air Forces as an officer.

Lt. Louis Graves Cox, of Winterville, N. C., received the silver wings of an Army Air Forces pilot and was sworn in as a second lieutenant at Napier Field, Alabama, on April 15, 1944. Napier Field is an advanced single-engine pilot training school of the Army Air Forces Training Command.

Lt. Cox was a student at Wake Forest College when he entered the armed forces for flying training.

I Like

I like snakes and newborn kittens,
Baby calves and angora mittens,
Broiled lobster with mayonnaise,
The smell of New York on April days,
Black lace mitts and ivory candles,
Manicure scissors and harmless scandals,
Autograph books and teddy bears,
India ink and rocking chairs,
Ten-cent movies and roller skates,
Frozen ponds and parlor dates,
Crackling fires and big black crows,
The icy beauty of Yankee snows,
Cold potatoes and pink champagne,
A walk alone in the pouring rain,
Piggy banks and Venetian blinds,
Toothpaste and watermelon rinds,
Pickaninnies and symphonies,
Boogie-woogie and skeleton keys,
Gardenia petals, a cigarette,
Pianos and books of etiquette,
The special breeze of early spring . . .
I'm partial to practically everything!

As The Staff Sees Campus Life

Jimmy Anderson approached one of the building and ground employees the other day. The man was diligently sowing grass. Quoth Mr. Anderson, "Do you really think that the students will let this grass grow here?" "Well," drawled the man dreamily, "I've been sowing grass right here for the last twenty years and I don't know why, but we keep on hoping."

Emily Crandall is seldom on time to Mental Hygiene. She will come slinking in after Dr. Reid has looked around and asked where is Miss Crandall, and she always grins at him cutely so that he can't possibly be mad. He has to grin too. But that is not the story. The other day Dr. Reid looked around and said where is Miss Crandall, and she didn't come in, so he began to lecture. "We find that in formal education the tendency is NOT . . ." and he paused for just the right word to follow so emphatic a negation. And what do you think? In walked Emily. We thought she was going to say, "Did I hear somebody say Nott?" But she just grinned. The class loved it.

The Physics I class used a little strategy on Dr. Speas the other day. When he asked if there were any problems that the class wanted to be worked, two students asked for two problems to be worked. Dr. Speas worked them and then found out later that those two problems were two of the three the class was to hand in the next day.

Spring affects people in many ways. It seems to have turned "Hoey" Brantley into a queer combination of cave man and highway robber. The other day Hoey hijacked Alice Lee Harris and carried her off by force away from her pressing duties in the OGB office. It seems that Hoey wanted to go walking. Alice Lee struggled. Hoey was not affected in the least. The last we saw of them Alice Lee was walking quietly by Hoey's side, enjoying the beauties of nature.

J. T. Sasser, Jr., wasn't feeling very well the other day, and decided to go to the infirmary to get an excuse for missing class. He started toward the stone building, when suddenly he noticed that the walk was sowed with grass.

"Oh, oh," said Sasser, "a fifty cent fine." And he looked about for another way to reach the infirmary. But there was no other way. Everything was planted with grass! And rather than make a complete circuit of the campus, Sasser went to class.

Hoey Brantley: Gee, she gave you a dirty look!
Jim Doyle: Who?
Hoey: Mother Nature!

At least two bridge games may be found in progress in the book store any afternoon. Some of the players are novices. They don't remember, purposely or not, where the lead is. But Margaret Carroll pulled the best remark of the whole time, "Where's the board?" asked Margaret.

Literary Societies

EUZELIAN

Dr. Hubert Poteat gave readings from the play "The Green Pastures" Monday night at the Euzelian Society before members of the two societies, other students, and residents of the town. With his deep bass voice, Dr. Poteat gave the impression that he really was "de Lawd" in the play. He read in the negro dialect and added the appropriate gestures, treating cleverly the acts of the negroes as they talked to each other.

Roland Pruette Talks Over Radio

Roland Pruette, '43, who has been in the Mediterranean area for several months and recently suffered from frost-bitten feet, was heard over the radio Wednesday night. Roland was the first among a number of Americans in Algiers to appear on the program. He sent a message to his family that he is getting along all right. At Wake Forest he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, O D K, and Kappa Alpha, and was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

BOOKS

We Recommend

(WINSTON CHURCHILL, by Rene Kraus)

To compress the almost fantastical life of one of the most inspiring and dynamic leaders in the world's history into a mere 300 pages is admittedly no simple task, yet in his biography of Winston Churchill, Rene Kraus does just that, and does it in a superb and masterful fashion. One of the better authorities on England's wartime leader, Kraus has written a biography that reads like a novel. This accomplishment would seem to indicate the extraordinary literary ability of the author and doubtless he does have such ability, yet the book could hardly read otherwise, for the career of Winston Churchill is a career such as is found only in grandiose works of fiction.

Born prematurely at Bleinheim Palace on December 30, 1874, to Jenny Jerome, daughter of the American owner of the New York Times and founder of the New York Jockey Club, and Randolph Churchill, later British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston was even from birth called "the man in a hurry." Kraus carries us down the line of his adventures and accomplishments, his great interest in aviation and his frequent plane crashes, his experiences in Cuba, India, South Africa, and Egypt, his introduction to Parliament, and his switch from the Conservative Party to the Liberals and then back to the Conservatives, and the unparalleled energy, devotion to duty, and success with which he filled the position as First Lord of the British Admiralty during World War I. The disaster at Gallipoli and Churchill's other heartbreaks and setbacks are given special attention, and the incident of his being run down by a taxicab in New York City is humorously presented. Kraus analyzes with special skill the development of Churchill's oratorical prowess, to the great peak which it has reached today. An almost pathetic account is given of the famous "They Called Me Cassandra" period in Churchill's life, when he enthusiastically but vainly predicted time and time again in speeches in Commons during the Stanley Bandwin and Neville Chamberlain era of British politics that the rising power of German military might would break one day like a thundershower over sleeping England's head. The events of Churchill's life are carried by Kraus up to his accession of the duties of British Prime Minister in the dark days preceding Dunkirk of May, 1940. There Kraus lays down his pen, but the world knows how splendidly Churchill has fulfilled the trust and confidence placed in him by the British people, and how he has led a beleaguered England from the very gates of hell and down the road of war that can lead but to inevitable victory.

Library Owns Old Baptist Register

The library has in its possession four editions of "The Annual Register of the Baptist Denomination." The first edition, which was published in 1791, in Southampton, Va., is one of the possessions of the library and as far as it is known, there is but one other in existence today. John Asplund, "A Sweed" according to the title page, compiled the volumes.

The nature of the publication is a list of Baptist churches which were in the state at the time. The number of members, the location, the names of the pastors and other data concerning the churches is listed. An "N" by the statistics signifies that the church enrollment was composed entirely of Negroes and an "I" means that it was composed of Indians.

These rare editions came to the library from various sources. The first edition was a gift of Dr. Charles P. Taylor, a former president of the college.

Senior Personalities

By Charlie Gorman

Everybody knows the congenial little coed who edits The Howler. Brown-eyed, fair-skinned, dark-haired Elizabeth Ann Jones, otherwise known as Lib, has been around Wake Forest for quite a while. Although her warm smile has radiated from behind the editor's desk of The Howler for only one year, she is one of the most experienced journalists on the campus.

Born in Chicago, Ill., in June, 1924, she and her family moved to Wake Forest in September of the same year, as her father began teaching in the college. Her father received his Ph. D. in the same summer that Lib was born, and it is told he said in despair, "Oh, well, I guess you can't be lucky all the time."

Many Achievements

Since entering Wake Forest, she has achieved quite a bit for a young woman. Besides being editor of The Howler, she has served on the Old Gold and Black and The Student staffs and in the capacity of President of the Publications Board. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and is in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She is a member of Sigma Pi Alpha and vice-president of Alpha Psi Omega, a representative to the girls' executive council, and a member of the Phi Literary Society. She was also a member of the Glee Club and is a member of the Little Theater, which she helped organize during her sophomore year.

Has Many Friends

Lib is one of the most happy-go-lucky, good-natured students on the campus. Her personality and ability give her many friends among the boys and girls alike. She likes to spend her time reading, playing bridge, bowling, (although she's not too good), and at times she is an ardent ping-pong fan. She hates cold weather and snow, likes warm weather, and in the summertime she may be found in or close to a swimming pool most any time. She doesn't like to study, would rather shoot the bull or chew the fat. She may be found taking many walks, as it is her favorite form of exercise. Her favorite liquid refreshment is a cherry coke.

Although slightly on the bashful side herself, she likes people who are frank and sincere. She cannot stand anyone who always beats around the bush or who is two-faced. One of her favorite tricks is analyzing a person's character and background. Through this process, she feels that she gets to know people better. She enjoys her journalism work and her pet peeve is for somebody to ask her when The Howler is coming out. You're lucky to even get an answer to this question, much less a polite one. This past year she was the leader of the Girl Scouts in Wake Forest, but resigned this position as the young girls were too much for her.

Is Good "Old Lady"

Lib is not very much concerned with love, mush and such, although she was engaged and almost married at one time. It was when she was in the second grade. She was engaged to two boys, and couldn't decide between them, and so never took the binding steps. In high school she often dated college boys, but nothing serious ever came of it.

In high school plays, she used to play the part of an old lady, but preferred and hoped to play something different when she came to college. She is the best "old lady" on the campus.

She has been in some tough spots while she has been here. In her freshman year she was taken up before the Freshman Advisory Committee for not wearing her badge, speaking disrespectfully to upper classmen, and not attending freshman meetings. She and her father got her out of it.

At present Lib is working hard in an attempt to put out a whizbang Howler this year, and if it is anything like her congenial personality and splendid character it will be a success.

Dr. Binkley Speaks In Winston-Salem

"Religion In Life" Used As Subject of The Series

Dr. O. T. Binkley, professor of religion, spent last week in Winston-Salem, with the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. He was the speaker for the annual Religious Focus Week, sponsored by the Baptist Student Union of the Hospital and the Medical School. The theme of the series of five meetings was "Religion in Life." The services were remarkably well attended, said Dr. Binkley, and the number was larger each night. This good attendance in spite of the heavy schedule everyone has, shows two things, he said: that the B. S. U. of the Medical School and Hospital is functioning, and that there is an interest in religion in life.

Nurses Sing

The nurses and med students had charge of the worship. Monday night the meeting was held in the Nurses' Home; Tuesday through Friday evenings the services took place in the amphitheater of the Medical School.

A glee club composed of nurses furnished music for the week of services. Bill Shields, a graduate of Wake Forest and at present a student at Bowman Gray, sang a solo one evening. An octet from the negro teacher's college in Winston-Salem furnished a special number another night.

Many W. F. People

In addition to the nightly services Dr. Binkley spoke once to a class in Bible which he was surprised to find being taught in the Medical School. It was attended by the nurses of the Baptist Hospital with which the School of Medicine is affiliated.

There were a great many Wake Forest people around, of course, Dr. Binkley said. But there are students there from many states. The president of the B. S. U., Jimmie Satterwhite, who had charge of the Religious Focus Week, is from Florida.

Don't forget the Super Dooper Student Council party this dusk.

Social Functions For H. S. Seniors

A series of entertainments is now being given in honor of the senior class at the Wake Forest High School. These entertainments began three weeks ago with the annual junior-senior banquet, and will continue Friday night with the sophomore class honoring the seniors with an old-fashioned weiner roast. Saturday night Miss Mabel West will give a party at her home in Wake Forest in honor of the senior class, which is scheduled to graduate early in May.

Boys Join Navy

Thomas Long of Roxboro and Edward Davenport of Winterville left Wake Forest last week to enter the Navy in the near future. Both of these boys were freshmen at Wake Forest, having entered the last fall quarter.

Discussions Held By Seven Groups

Faculty Members Meet With Students To Talk Over Religion

Discussions were held Wednesday night by groups of students on the campus led by faculty members. All of the fraternities and coeds held discussions. The subject was "Emphasis Needed Most in Religion Today." The groups were as follows:

The girls at Magnolia Inn and Mrs. Barbee's were led by Dr. D. B. Bryan with Viola Hopkins as the student sponsor.

Students at the Colonial Club with others from Mrs. Blalock's, Mrs. Newsome's, and Mrs. Gooch's were led by Dr. Kitchin with J. T. Sasser, Jr., as student sponsor.

PIKA's, students from Prof. Memory's and Prof. Carroll's were led by the Rev. Eugene Olive with Elbert Wethington as student sponsor.

College Hall was led by Dr. C. B. Earp, as leader, with Virgil Helms, student sponsor.

Mrs. Saunders' home had Dr. Max L. Griffin as leader and Bruce Whitaker, student sponsor.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, had Dr. O. T. Binkley as leader and Roger Chenault, student sponsor.

Kappa Sigma and students in the vicinity had Dr. J. A. Easley as leader and Earnest Russell, student sponsor.

Teen-Age Club Holds Meeting

The recently organized Teen-Age Club at the Wake Forest High School held its second regular meeting Tuesday night and continued plans for the club's activity during the coming months. Arrangements are being made to purchase phonograph records, to institute a program of teaching as many high school students as possible to dance, and to acquaint students with general social procedure. Miss Ann Wood and Miss Ann Hetrick, members of the high school faculty, have been selected as leaders for the group.

The Wake Forest club has been organized as a part of the great national movement to combat the rising scale of juvenile delinquency during wartime, and hundreds of such clubs are now in operation throughout the nation.

Med Frat Sees Scientific Movie

An interesting and instructive showing of films by Chemistry Department head Dr. W. J. Wyatt on the nervous system of man was presented at the regular meeting of Gamma Nu Iota, honorary pre-medical fraternity, held at 8:00 last night in the Johnson pre-medical building. An accompanying explanation of the films as they were shown was made by Dr. O. C. Bradbury, head of the Biology Department. The meeting virtually amounted to an enjoyable round table discussion led by Dr. Bradbury on the films. Only Gamma Nu Iota members were allowed to attend the meeting. The regular portion of the meeting was devoted to a minor discussion of outstanding business and was presided over by fraternity president Wiley Rayle.

GROUP SINGING

Every evening at seven-thirty informal group singing will be held somewhere around Wait Hall, probably at the old well. This feature, which used to be enjoyed on the campus, has held so much interest in the past that it is felt that it should be resumed. Everyone is invited to come and join in this bit of campus life.

Ministerial Group Hears Dr. Easley

The Ministerial Conference held its regular meeting on Tuesday night, April 18, at which time Dr. J. Allen Easley of the Religion Department was the speaker. Dr. Easley presented some very helpful topics on the subject "Sermon Making."

The Conference held a short business meeting after the program at which time they voted to change the hour of the regular meeting from 7:30 to 7:15.

Marine Corps Women's Reserve Data Available

Marine Corps Women's Reserve posters and literature have recently been distributed in the ladies' lounge by Lt. Sarah W. R. Coan, and Sgt. Pearl S. McKinney, who are stationed at the Recruiting office, in Raleigh.

The Marine Corps Women's Reserve is open to women 20 to 36, with a minimum of two years of high school, in good health, of good character, and with no children under 18 years of age. There are over a hundred jobs open for women Marines, and there is opportunity for advancement by those who apply themselves. Half of the Women's Reserve is utilized in the field of aviation. The Officer candidates are selected from the applicants in the enlisted ranks.

The Marine Corps Women's Reserve is fast reaching the fulfillment of its authorized strength. Now while there are a few remaining vacancies is the time for women who want to be Marines to enlist.

Further information may be obtained without obligation by writing Marine Corps Women's Reserve, 310 Post Office Building, Raleigh, North Carolina.

I. R. C. Discusses Nazi Yugoslavia

A six-part program on the present situation of Yugoslavia in Nazi-held Europe was the main feature at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Wake Forest chapter of the International Relations Club, held in the law building last night at 8:00. The meeting was presided over by president Nancy Easley.

The program consisted of talks on the various phases of the Yugoslavian struggle by Campbell McMillan, Leo Hawkins, Nina Lide, Simmons Fentress, Billie Collier, and Nancy Easley. Faculty adviser Professor Clonts was present at the meeting and led a discussion of the program by the club members.

DARK

Navy Lt., Binkley Speak In Chapel

The chapel assembly was informed by Lt. Armstrong, officer connected with State Selective Service, last Monday morning that the national roster for college students has been rescinded. He outlined the former program of the national roster and stated that no deferments will be given to college students who had not obtained deferments before the national roster was put into effect or have not been admitted to some professional school before July 1, 1944. He suggested that the date might possibly be changed to September or October, since new classes in professional schools ordinarily begin in the fall. Lt. Armstrong urged those who had 4-f classifications or 1-c classifications to stay in college.

Gospel of Christ

The people of today should not be ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, according to Dr. O. T. Binkley, who spoke to the student body at Chapel assembly last Wednesday morning. Dr. Binkley pointed out that the idea of shame has a large place in the Bible. Paul used the word "shame" to mean "bad form". In the time of Paul it was bad form to be a Christian. The Greeks and Romans did not believe in Christianity and the Jews considered it heresy or treason. "It is time for us to be unashamed of our religion," declared Dr. Binkley. He said that we should be ashamed of our lack of faith and our waywardness. Especially should we not be ashamed of the Gospel of Christ. Dr. Binkley listed four points which the Gospel of Christ involved: (1) Jesus Christ, (2) principles of Christian religion, (3) the question, what have I done in my time to advance the cause of Christ? and (4) verbal belief of Christian powers and proofs. "Let us not blush with shame or grow pale with fear when we face the evil forces of our day," urged Dr. Binkley.

Hey, lookyhere. You'll miss the biggest batch of fun of the year if you aren't at the Student Council show tonight at 9:00. It may not win the motion picture Oscar, but it'll certainly get the jack.

High School Officers

The Wake Forest High School this week elected student body officers for the coming year as follows:

President, Elwood Peele.
Vice-president, William Mitchell
Secretary-Treasurer, Patsy Nestor.

Post-War Houses

Berkeley, Calif. — (ACP) — Howard Moise, professor of architecture at the University of California in Berkeley, discounts current predictions of post-war housing projects that dazzle the eyes and stagger the imagination, since the immediate housing boom will be too hasty to permit many drastic changes at first.

New Procedure

New York, N. Y. — (ACP) — A streamlined admission procedure for day courses of the Cooper Union school of engineering is announced by Prof. Walter S. Watson, director of admissions at the Cooper Union.

The new plan will enable a candidate to know almost immediately whether he will be admitted to the course, instead of having to wait until the term is about to open, as in the past, will be used in admitting students to the one-year basic scientific course open only to boys who will be beginning June 29. This course is for 17 years old May 15, or who for some other reason will be assured of having at least a year for college study before starting military service.

Richard Hoyle Killed In Crash

The following telegram was received by Mrs. Hawkins Vester of Spring Hope Tuesday night:

50 Government, El Toro, California.
Deeply regret the right to inform you that Second Lieutenant Richard Hoyle, U. S. Marine Corps, Reg., died as a result of multiple injuries received in an airplane crash at approximately 9:30 p.m., April 17, 1944, at the U. S. Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Cal. Please accept my most heartfelt sympathy.

W. P. Bowland, N. J. U. S. M. C.
Lt. Hoyle was the youngest of the four sons of the late Starkey H. and Mrs. Hoyle of Wakefield. Mrs. Vester is the only sister. Before entering service Richard graduated at Wake Forest and taught in the high school at Wilson. He was one of the state's best known players of baseball. Definite funeral arrangements can not be made at this time.

HEY! YOU!
Don't forget the Student Council party tonight at 9:00!

LOVE

Myrtle Batts, who enjoys the company of Bill Bland, thought that love is "a wonderful institution, that it is here to stay."

Emily Crandall and Ernest Nott were seated at their usual booth outside the book store. "Love, the spring weather, music," said Emily, "they bring out your glands." Ernest added that extra-curricular activities can do amazing things to your grades.

A quarrel between Bob McNeil and Nan Lacy Harris was just being patched up, so Bob refused to make a statement. Nan Lacy told us that "I think it's very complicated."

Where Is Al?

Charlotte Boone wanted to find Al Jennings before committing herself, and Al was not available at the time. Such is life! Their views would have probably been most enlightening.

"It certainly was romantic," said Alice Holliday as she told of how Tom Russell gave her an engagement ring. "There we were in a crowded bus station. We stood there with tramps watching and shook hands fondly. Then I went to South Carolina and he went back to Wake Forest."

By this time the reporter was feeling more confused than ever, and decided to find out from those who did not know. "Are you in love?" Simmons Fentress was asked, as he pounded away at a typewriter in the OG&B office. When Simmons said no, she asked, "Would you like to be?" "My gosh, it's leap year!" Simmons exclaimed as he ran out the door.

"I don't know what love is," said Charlie Morris. "I'm in love with so many, many people."

"There's no future in it," said Jim Doyle.
"I don't know which I hate most—love or women," Sasser replied. It's Spring. The flowers bloom and romances flourish. But what is love? Nobody seems to know.

MEN

Lt. James B. Turner, Jr., of Griffin, Georgia, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. He is assigned to active duty with a flying squadron of the fighting Leathernecks. Jim, a Marine flyer, received his commission after graduating from an advanced flight training school at Corpus Christi.

Pvt. Bill McLeod, class of '45, was a visitor on the campus this past weekend. He is nearing completion of his basic training at Fort Bragg and expects to be shipped to another camp in the near future.

THAT'S JUST WHAT WAR BONDS ARE FOR!

EVERYBODY'S PLANNING. Recent farm surveys show that a majority of the people who own their own farms are ready, the minute war ends, to build and repair barns and buildings and make many other improvements. Tenants, too, are on the lookout for farms of their own to build on in the post-war period. This is going to take many millions of dollars. Wise farmers have been saving the money for these purposes. Many of them have saved it in War Bonds—and many more are on their way.

HOW TO GET READY. You probably have many places on the farm to put money when materials and machinery and equipment are again available—if you have the money! So why not start right now? Step up your savings by buying War Bonds—the best and safest way to invest for future needs.

WHEN THE BOYS COME HOME. Your youngster in service is doing a man's job now—and he expects to do a man's job when he gets home again. But he won't be happy with run-down buildings and inefficient equipment. So that's another good reason for stepping up your purchase of War Bonds. You're backing him up in his fight to preserve our country, and at the same time preparing for the kind of home he wants to come back to.

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get $\frac{1}{4}$ more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back \$4 for every \$3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. BUY WAR BONDS!

FACTS ABOUT WAR BONDS (Series E)
You Lend Uncle Sam:	Upon Maturity you get back:
$18.75	$25.00
37.50	50.00
75.00	100.00
375.00	500.00
750.00	1000.00

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, postmaster, retail mail carrier or Protective Credit Association

For America's future, for your future, for your children's future—keep on buying WAR BONDS

Let's all KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK!

Have a "Coke" = So glad you're back again

...or welcoming a home-coming sailor

Fighting men look forward to that home-world where friendliness and hospitality are summed up in the familiar phrase "Have a 'Coke'". Be sure and get Coca-Cola for your icebox at home. From Atlanta to the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a global symbol of good will and of good living.
