

Costa Rica has a number of inactive volcanos, and one active one. Among the most beautiful sights of the land is the inactive Volcan Irasu, with its beautiful red crater lake.

The Heredia Baptist Church has been our church home during this year of work in Costa Rica.

The main attraction of the people of San Jose during Christmas is the "Bull Game" which goes on from the 26th of December until the 4th of January. Last year over 300 people were injured in the "games" during these few days.

July 3, 1960

Dear Friends:

Well, here it is only a few weeks before we will be back in the United States for a little visit before we sail for Ecuador, where we will make our home for the next four years, the Lord willing.

As this year of language study draws to a close, we look forward to leaving this beautiful little country with mixed emotions. Certainly, we will be glad to be back in the States for a while with our family and friends. Also, we are looking forward to joining our missionary team that is already at work in Ecuador. But here, we have had our first real contact with the culture in which we will be working. Here, we have worked in our first Latin American Church. Here, I have preached my first sermon in Spanish. Here, we have learned to love the Latin people, and we have become acquainted with the Roman Catholic Church in Latin America, with tears in our hearts.

Rev. and Mrs. Archie V. Jones, with Gwendolyn and Archie, Jr., at the time of their departure for Costa Rica a year ago.

They will soon complete the year of language study and return home to re-outfit themselves for four years work in Ecuador. They expect to begin the journey home on August 12.

If you write them again in Costa Rica, write by Air Mail. First Class mail will not reach them before they leave.

We will be seeing many of you in person before many days, but others, we will not be able to see. Since this is the case, and since we will soon be sending you reports from Ecuador, we thought you would like to know a little more of what has taken place in our lives here in Costa Rica this year.

Here in Costa Rica, we have had the opportunity to come to see the Roman Catholic Church as it affects the lives of the people. Religion is not lacking here, or in any other part of Latin America. Everywhere you go, you will see magnificent images of Christ, and of the Virgin Mary, and of the Saints. Almost every week there are fiestas to some saint. The people spend a great deal of time and money in religious affairs. It is not unusual to see the image of a saint adorned with gold and silver. Christ may be seen in a golden coffin, or on a cross with a solid gold halo around his head.

On the Holy Days, the images are carried through the streets. Many people bow to the ground as they pass. A great deal is made over the death of Christ, but little is said of the living, reigning, King of Glory and of Life. The biggest event here during the Christmas season is the "Bull Games", but at Easter Masses are held all week long in the Catholic churches, and thousands of people are in the streets in mourning clothes. Most of the businesses close from Wednesday until Sunday of Holy Week. Others close for the entire week.

It has been a new feeling for us, but we are in the minority here! In Heredia, where we go to church, the Baptists have the only real thriving evangelical witness, other than a small work by the Church of God. On Sundays, when the Catholics have parades, they usually stop a band in front of our church for awhile, and we are forced to have a prayer meeting, since we can hear nothing said.

In the church at Heredia, we have a seminary student working as Sunday School Superintendent. He has worked very hard to get our Sunday School graded. Our Attendance has jumped from the 70s, to over 100.

Both Gwendolyn and Archie, Jr., enjoy their classes at Heredia. We are thankful to the Lord for the way the children have adjusted to this new kind of life, and to you, who have remembered them with cards and notes from time to time. We wish you could see Gwendolyn's face light up when we tell her she has a letter from someone. Archie, Jr., has been growing like a corn stalk, and has become quite a "tico". He likes to take my machete and try to cut the grass in the yard. We aren't sure what language he speaks, but he is beginning to talk at last. He understands both English and Spanish.

As we prepare to leave this lovely little country, with its fertile fields, high mountains, and very cordial people, we realize that this year has just been a sample of the learning we must go on doing during these next years, if we want to be God's Messengers in the midst of his people here. Continue to pray for us, that we might not "hang our harps upon the willow trees", but that we may always be ready to sing the Lord's Song, wherever we are.

Christ (dead) in a coffin of glass, gold and wood, in one of the large Catholic Churches in the city of Cartage. This image of Christ is life size.

Christ is a familiar figure to the people of South America, but he is better known as the Son of Mary than as the Son of God.

We have word from Richmond that our work in Ecuador will be in Guayaquil.

We want to tahnk all of you for making this year possible for us, as well as encouraging us constantly with cards and letters. We want to say a very special "Thank you" to the folks of the South Roanoke Association and to John Moore, the Associational Missionary, for making these letters possible. Also, "Thanks" to the folks at Belhaven and Holly Springs for their special interest in us.

Many of you have written asking if there is anything you can do for us. Well there is! We have a number of speaking engagements awaiting us in September and October. You can begin now to pray for us that we might bring God's message to our hearers.

Yours in Christ,

*Archie and Julia
Gwen and Archie Jr.*

ARCHIE V. JONES

Costa Rica is a land of contrasts. This beautiful Gothic cathedral stands above the poor homes of the people in the village of San Isidro del Coronado.

Archie, Jr., thinks he is a real "tico" grass cutter. All of the men and boys from the country wear a big knife like this as part of their clothing.

Gwen enjoys playing nurse. The Tricycle which we brought down for her Christmas has been her favourite toy.

Enrichment Program

Archie Jones, who is associated with the Baptist Men's Program of the N.C. Baptist State Convention, will speak for today's (Thursday) sessions of the Cultural Enrichment Program of Campbell University.

Jones, a native of Mocksville and a graduate of Wake Forest University, received his bachelor of divinity degree from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Prior to his appointment to the Brotherhood Department of the Baptist State Convention, Jones served as pastor of Robin Hood Drive Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, as associate pastor of Belhaven Baptist Church, Belhaven, and from 1960-75, he was under appointment for the Foreign Mission Board as a missionary to Guayaquil, Ecuador.

Visitors are welcome to attend the program, which will be presented at 10 and 11 a.m. in Turner Auditorium. /

Halifax WMU Meets Tuesday In Gaston

A young field evangelist will be guest speaker at the Spring meeting Tuesday of Halifax County Woman's Missionary Union with Gaston Baptist Church as host.

Mrs. John Medlin Jr., County WMU chairman, said the meeting will be from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. and members are to bring sandwiches. The church will furnish dessert and drinks.

The speaker will be the Rev. Archie V. Jones who has served as field evangelist in Guayaquil, Ecuador since 1961. He also teaches at Baptist Theological Institute there.

He was assigned to his present field after completing a year of language study in San Jose, Costa Rica.

These assignments, according to the Rev. Jones, fit his concept of the purpose of missions. "I believe our basic task is founding churches and training Christians who will live the kind of lives that compel the respect and admiration of non-Christians," he says.

He has taught a wide range of subjects at the small theological institute, which opened soon after his arrival in Ecuador in 1961.

In addition to his other responsibilities, he has directed a Baptist book store and taught church study courses for laymen.

The evangelist said about his work, "The changed life of just one young man has been enough to make our work in Guayaquil worthwhile. When I met Carlos he was just out of jail. I thought him one of the poorest prospects for church membership I had ever seen. Now he is a student in the theological institute and an outstanding worker in a mission of First (Baptist) Church of Guayaquil."

The Rev. Jones went overseas from a three-year pastorate with Missionary Baptist Church, Belhaven. A native of Davie County, he lived on a farm and in Mocksville, the county seat, during boyhood. He graduated from Mars Hill College with the associate of arts degree, from Wake Forest College (now located in Winston-Salem) with the bachelor of arts degree and from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, with the bachelor of divinity degree.

He says the idea of becoming a missionary "first began to take root" in his life when he was a freshman at Mars Hill, though four years elapsed before he made a definite decision.

Mrs. Jones is the former Julia Hough of Mecklenburg County. They have three children: Gwen, born in 1956; Archie Jr., 1958; and David, 1960.

Appointed by the Foreign Mission Board in 1959, they were assigned to Guayaquil after a year of Spanish language study in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Just prior to this appointment he was pastor of Missionary Baptist Church, Belhaven, N.C., for three years.

A native of Davie County, N.C., Jones lived on a farm and in Mocksville, the county seat, during boyhood. He was graduated from Mars Hill (N.C.) Local Baptists to Hear Missionary on Sunday

The Rev. Archie V. Jones, Baptist missionary in Quayaquil, Ecuador, will be guest speaker at both worship services at First Baptist Church this Sunday.

A native of Davie County, Jones lived on a farm and in Mocksville during his boyhood. He graduated from Mars Hill College with the associate of arts degree, from Wake Forest University with the bachelor of arts degree, and from Southeastern Baptist Seminary with the bachelor of divinity degree. Currently on furlough, Jones is doing additional work at Southeastern Seminary this year.

Jones says the idea of becoming a missionary first began to "take root" in his life when he was a freshman at Mars Hill, but his commitment to mission work came later on when he was pastor of the Baptist Church at Belhaven, N.C.

Before assignment to Ecuador, Jones spent a year in language study in San Jose, Costa Rica. In Quayaquil he has a varied ministry as evangelist, teacher in a small seminary, director of a Baptist book store, and teacher of study courses designed for laymen. His concept of mission work is centered in "founding churches and training Christians who will live the kind of lives that compel the respect and admiration of non-Christians."

Jones represents a new generation of missionaries, men and women who seek to identify with the needs of nationals and work as partners to meet those needs. This identification and non-paternalistic approach breaks down communication barriers of the past.

A young man, Jones has a wide appeal to young people because he seeks to understand their problems and talk their language.

Rev. Archie Jones To Conduct Revival At First Baptist

four years, their assignment was in the mountains of Ecuador in the beautiful town of Cuenca. Their plans are to return here after their furlough. During their furlough they are residing in the South Fork community of Winston-Salem with their children; Gwendolyn, Archie Jr., and David.

Rev. and Mrs. Jones join with Rev. Cheshire and the members of the church in inviting all their friends in Davie County to come and be with us in our revival meeting.

Rev. Archie Jones, a charter member of Blaise Baptist Church, who held the first revival services there in 1960 will be conducting services beginning with the Morning Worship on Sunday, October 6th, and continuing through Sunday morning, October 13th. The services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

Blaise, which began as a mission endeavor of the First Baptist Church of Mocksville in April 1960, was established as a church on October 2, 1961. Eighty-four charter members held their meetings in a cement block building on a lot donated by the late Mr. Frost on the Yadkinville Road. Now the 235 members are stewards of a $160,000 dollar investment in modern buildings located on five acres of land in a fast growing section of Davie County just off Interstate 40. Rev. Dewey Ijames was called as the first pastor and led the membership into the building of a magnificent A-frame sanctuary. Patrick Kelly was the second pastor and encouraged the members to build a nice parsonage on Country Lane. Serving as the pastor now is Rev. Alvis Cheshire, a native Mocksvillian, who has with the aid of the deacons, spurred the church on to greater accomplishments such as the building of a modern all-electric Sunday School facility and fellowship hall which is used as a Junior Church for the fifty children that are brought in on the church buses which are named "Charlie Brown" and "Trailblazer."

Archie V. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, is a graduate of Mocksville High School, Mars Hill College, Wake Forest University, and the Southeastern Baptist Seminary. He served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Belhaven, N. C. during his last year in seminary and for a year after graduation. In 1959, he and his wife, the former Julie Hough of Charlotte, left for San Jose, Costa Rica where they studied Spanish at the International Language School. The Southern Baptist Mission Board then assigned them to Quayaquil, Ecuador in South America. They worked in the coastal town of Quayaquil for two terms for a total of eight years. For the last

Baptist Women's Meeting to Focus on Missions, Witnessing

"By Love Compelled" will be the theme for the annual meeting of the N. C. Woman's Missionary Union, to be held at the Benton Convention Center tomorrow and Saturday.

The sessions will focus on some of the main thrusts of Southern Baptists — such as foreign missions, home missions, stewardship and personal witnessing.

Also, each session will feature testimonies of women who have been involved in special mission and witnessing activities of the state organization, which is attached to the Baptist State Convention.

All sessions will be interpreted for the deaf and for Korean- and Spanish-speaking people.

The meeting will begin at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow, focusing on foreign missions and the responsibility Christians have to go around the world with the Gospel. The speakers will be Archie and Caroline Jones, Southern Baptist missionaries in Temuco, Chile. Jones is a former Winston-Salem pastor.

The afternoon session also will feature reports on the Baptist Nursing Fellowship and North Carolina's partnership project with Togo in West Africa. Special music will be presented by a women's ensemble from First Baptist Church of Greensboro.

Tomorrow night's session at 7 o'clock has been prepared by Susan Reed and Neal Peyton of the convention's special ministries department. It will be a report on what North Carolina Baptists are doing in ministry with the blind, deaf and mentally retarded. Parents involved in these ministries will speak. Music will be by the Celebration Singers of Greensboro and Lisa Caudle, a Raleigh soloist.

The importance of Christian stewardship will be the focus of the 9 a.m. session Saturday. The speakers will be Virginia Highfill, a retired missionary to Japan who lives here and is working part time with language missions in North Carolina; Bernice Cross, who is chairman of the 1986 WMU centennial committee; and the Rev. Cecil A. Ray, former general secretary-treasurer of the state convention who is now the national director of a Southern Baptist stewardship campaign. Music will be presented by Ms. Caudle.

The 1:30 p.m. session Saturday will focus on the importance of being a Christian witness, and the speaker will be J. W. Hutchens Jr., director of the state convention's division of evangelism.

Each session will conclude with a time of reflection led by Barbara Joiner of Columbiana, Ala.

Missionary to Chile reports to Baptists

By HORACE RICKS
Director of Missions
Johnston Baptist Association

The Rev. Archie V. Jones, a Southern Baptist missionary to Chile since 1981, was among the speakers at a World Missions Conference at Kenly Baptist Church.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of Mars Hill College, Wake Forest University, and Southeastern Seminary at Wake Forest.

He was first appointed by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board in 1959 and began service in San Jose, Costa Rica. Later, he was reassigned to minister in Temuco, Chile, where he has served for the past 14 years.

"Chile," said Mr. Jones, "is 70 to 80 miles wide and parallels the west coast of South America from Ecuador to the southern end of the continent." Speaking of the variety of the terrain, he said Chile has the driest desert in the world, a place where it literally never rains. The country has some of the highest mountains, which are snow-capped, and the hottest weather below the mountain peaks. It also has glaciers, and from north to south there are mountain ranges, desert flatlands, and moderate tropical regions, where rain is abundant and the foliage is beautiful.

Parts of Chile were colonized by the Germans, and their influence is seen in the architecture of the homes and some public buildings. Most people walk a great deal because very few of them own a car.

Fifty percent of the population is under 25 years of age. Many of these young people are responsive to the message of the church; hence, the work is growing. One church is responsible for a growth spurt that resulted in the starting of 35 congregations, Mr. Jones said.

Chile has many volcanoes, some of which have destroyed many trees. However, the country has a reforestation program, so there are many trees in Chile. In those forests are European elk, which are the largest animals in Chile. They are beautiful and very strong animals, Mr. Jones said.

People in Chile like to live close together. They don't like open ranges.

Southern Baptists have been in Chile since 1916. Five percent of the people claim evangelical faith and new areas of ministry are being started regularly, said Mr. Jones.

Missionary To Be Here Sunday

Rev. Archie V. Jones, Davie County Native, Coming to Delrayno

The Rev. Archie V. Jones, a Baptist missionary serving in Ecuador, now in the state on furlough, will be guest preacher at 11 a.m. Sunday at Delrayno Baptist Church.

In announcing the visit by the Davie County native, who has served in Guayaquil since 1961, the Rev. Steve Williams, pastor of the Oxford Church, said the public is invited to hear the speaker and participate in the worship.

Mr. Jones teaches at the Baptist Theological Institute in Guayaquil and has taught a wide range of subjects in the small theological institute, which opened soon after his arrival in Ecuador in 1961. In addition to his other responsibilities, he has taught church study courses for laymen.

He is a graduate of Mars Hill College and Wake Forest University. He is married to the former Julia Hough of Mecklenburg County and they have three children. He entered missions work in 1961 after a three-year pastorate at Belhaven.

Halifax WMU Meets Tuesday In Gaston

A young field evangelist will be guest speaker at the Spring meeting Tuesday of Halifax County Woman's Missionary Union with Gaston Baptist Church as host.

Mrs. John Medlin Jr., County WMU chairman, said the meeting will be from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. and members are to bring sandwiches. The church will furnish dessert and drinks.

The speaker will be the Rev. Archie V. Jones who has served as field evangelist in Guayaquil, Ecuador since 1961. He also teaches at Baptist Theological Institute there.

He was assigned to his present field after completing a year of language study in San Jose, Costa Rica.

These assignments, according to the Rev. Jones, fit his concept of the purpose of missions. "I believe our basic task is founding churches and training Christians who will live the kind of lives that compel the respect and admiration of non-Christians," he says.

He has taught a wide range of subjects at the small theological institute, which opened soon after his arrival in Ecuador in 1961.

In addition to his other responsibilities, he has directed a Baptist book store and taught church study courses for laymen.

The evangelist said about his work, "The changed life of just one young man has been enough to make our work in Guayaquil worthwhile. When I met Carlos he was just out of jail. I thought him one of the poorest prospects for church membership I had ever seen. Now he is a student in the theological institute and an outstanding worker in a mission of First (Baptist) Church of Guayaquil."

The Rev. Jones went overseas from a three-year pastorate with Missionary Baptist Church, Belhaven. A native of Davie County, he lived on a farm and in Mocksville, the county seat, during boyhood. He graduated from Mars Hill College with the associate of arts degree, from Wake Forest College (now located in Winston-Salem) with the bachelor of arts degree and from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, with the bachelor of divinity degree.

He says the idea of becoming a missionary "first began to take root" in his life when he was a freshman at Mars Hill, though four years elapsed before he made a definite decision.

Mrs. Jones is the former Julia Hough of Mecklenburg County. They have three children: Gwen, born in 1956; Archie, born in 1958; and David, born in 1960.

REV. ARCHIE V. JONES

Local Baptists to Hear Missionary on Sunday

The Rev. Archie V. Jones, Baptist missionary in Quayaquil, Ecuador, will be guest speaker at both worship services at First Baptist Church this Sunday.

A native of Davie County, Jones lived on a farm and in Mocksville during his boyhood. He graduated from Mars Hill College with the associate of arts degree, from Wake Forest University with the bachelor of arts degree, and from Southeastern Baptist Seminary with the bachelor of divinity degree. Currently on furlough, Jones is doing additional work at Southeastern Seminary this year.

Jones says the idea of becoming a missionary first began to "take root" in his life when he was a freshman at Mars Hill, but his commitment to mission work came later on when he was pastor of the Baptist Church at Belhaven, N.C.

Before assignment to Ecuador, Jones spent a year in language study in San Jose, Costa Rica. In Quayaquil he has a varied ministry as evangelist, teacher in a small seminary, director of a Baptist book store, and teacher of study courses designed for laymen. His concept of mission work is centered in "founding churches and training Christians who will live the kind of lives that compel the respect and admiration of non-Christians."

Jones represents a new generation of missionaries, men and women who seek to identify with the needs of nationals and work as partners to meet those needs. This identification and non-paternalistic approach breaks down communication barriers of the past.

A young man, Jones has a wide appeal to young people because he seeks to understand their problems and talk their language.

Baptist Women's Meeting to Focus on Missions, Witnessing

"By Love Compelled" will be the theme for the annual meeting of the N. C. Woman's Missionary Union, to be held at the Benton Convention Center tomorrow and Saturday.

The sessions will focus on some of the main thrusts of Southern Baptists — such as foreign missions, home missions, stewardship and personal witnessing.

Also, each session will feature testimonies of women who have been involved in special mission and witnessing activities of the state organization, which is attached to the Baptist State Convention.

All sessions will be interpreted for the deaf and for Korean- and Spanish-speaking people.

The meeting will begin at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow, focusing on foreign missions and the responsibility Christians have to go around the world with the Gospel. The speakers will be Archie and Caroline Jones, Southern Baptist missionaries in Temuco, Chile. Jones is a former Winston-Salem pastor.

The afternoon session also will feature reports on the Baptist Nursing Fellowship and North Carolina's partnership project with Togo in West Africa. Special music will be presented by a women's ensemble from First Baptist Church of Greensboro.

Tomorrow night's session at 7 o'clock has been prepared by Susan Reed and Neal Peyton of the convention's special ministries department. It will be a report on what North Carolina Baptists are doing in ministry with the blind, deaf and mentally retarded. Parents involved in these ministries will speak. Music will be by the Celebration Singers of Greensboro and Lisa Caudle, a Raleigh soloist.

The importance of Christian stewardship will be the focus of the 9 a.m. session Saturday. The speakers will be Virginia Highfill, a retired missionary to Japan who lives here and is working part time with language missions in North Carolina; Bernice Cross, who is chairman of the 1986 WMU centennial committee; and the

By HORACE RICKS
Director of Missions
Johnston Baptist Association

The Rev. Archie V. Jones, a Southern Baptist missionary to Chile since 1981, was among the speakers at a World Missions Conference at Kenly Baptist Church.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of Mars Hill College, Wake Forest University, and Southeastern Seminary at Wake Forest.

He was first appointed by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board in 1959 and began service in San Jose, Costa Rica. Later, he was reassigned to minister in Temuco, Chile, where he has served for the past 14 years.

"Chile," said Mr. Jones, "is 70 to 80 miles wide and parallels the west coast of South America from Ecuador to the southern end of the continent." Speaking of the variety of the terrain, he said Chile has the driest desert in the world, a place where it literally never rains. The country has some of the highest mountains, which are snow-capped, and the hottest weather below the mountain peaks. It also has glaciers, and from north to south there are mountain ranges, desert flatlands, and moderate tropical regions, where rain is abundant and the foliage is beautiful.

Parts of Chile were colonized by the Germans, and their influence is seen in the architecture of the homes and some public buildings. Most people walk a great deal because very few of them own a car.

Fifty percent of the population is under 25 years of age. Many of these young people are responsive to the message of the church, hence, the work is growing. The church is responsible for a growth spurt that resulted in the start of 35 congregations, Mr. Jones said.

Chile has many volcanoes, some of which have destroyed (27)

trees. However, the country has a reforestation program, so there are many trees in Chile. In those forests are European elk, which are the largest animals in Chile. They are beautiful and very strong animals, Mr. Jones said.

People in Chile like to live close together. They don't like open ranges.

Southern Baptists have been in Chile since 1916. Five percent of the people claim evangelical faith and new areas of ministry are being started regularly, said Mr. Jones.

Dear Friends:

Well, here it is only a few weeks before we will be back in the United States for a little visit before we sail for Ecuador, where we will make our home for the next four years, the Lord willing.

As this year of language study draws to a close, we look forward to leaving this beautiful little country with mixed emotions. Certainly, we will be glad to be back in the States for a while with our family and friends.

Rev. and Mrs. Archie V. Jones, with Gwendolyn and Archie, Jr., at the time of their departure for Costa Rica a year ago.

They will soon complete the year of language study and return home to re-outfit themselves for four years work in Ecuador. They expect to begin the journey home on August 12.

If you write them again in Costa Rica, write by Air Mail. First Class mail will not reach them before they leave.

Also, we are looking forward to joining our missionary team that is already at work in Ecuador. But here, we have had our first real contact with the culture in which we will be working. Here, we have worked in our first Latin American Church. Here, I have preached my first sermon in Spanish. Here, we have learned to love the Latin people, and we have become acquainted with the Roman Catholic Church in Latin America, with tears in our hearts.

We will be seeing many of you in person before many days, but others, we will not be able to see. Since this is the case, and since we will soon be sending you reports from Ecuador, we thought you would like to know a little more of what has taken place in our lives here in Costa Rica this year.

Here in Costa Rica, we have had the opportunity to come to see the Roman Catholic Church as it affects the lives of the people. Religion is not lacking here, or in any other part of Latin America. Everywhere you go, you will see magnificent images of Christ, and of the

Rev. Archie Jones, a charter member of Blaise Baptist Church, who held the first revival services there in 1960 will be conducting services beginning with the Morning Worship on Sunday, October 6th, and continuing through Sunday morning, October 13th. The services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

Blaise, which began as a mission endeavor of the First Baptist Church of Mocksville in April 1960, was established as a church on October 2, 1961. Eighty-four charter members held their meetings in a cement block building on a lot donated by the late Mr. Frost on the Yadkinville Road. Dewey Ijames was called as the first pastor and led the membership into the building of a magnificent A-frame sanctuary. Patrick Kelly was the second pastor and encouraged the members to build a nice parsonage on Country Lane. Serving as the pastor now is Rev. Alvis Cheshire, a native Mocksvillian, who has with the aid of the deacons, spurred the church on to greater accomplishments such as the building of a modern all-electric Sunday School facility and fellowship hall which is used as a Junior Church for the fifty children that are brought in on the church buses which are named "Charlie Brown" and "Trailblazer."
