

WF Church

Names Aide

To Blackburn

W-S Journal + Sentinel

The Rev. James D. Poage has been named assistant to Dr. J. Glenn Blackburn, minister of Wake Forest Baptist Church.

He succeeds Jim Hinson, who will enter Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Wake Forest and also serve as pastor of Gorman Baptist Church of Durham.

Poage is a native of Tulsa, Okla. He received his A.B. degree from Oklahoma Baptist University at Shawnee, Okla.,

POAGE

and his B.D. degree from Southeastern. He also did a year of graduate work at Baylor University at Waco, Tex., and is his Th. M. degree from Southeastern.

While a student at Southeastern, he was pastor of the Shady Grove Baptist Church at New Hill.

Poage also will be a chaplain-intern in the School of Pastoral Care department of Baptist Hospital. He will begin this year-long course Sept. 1.

The Poages are living at 4813 Morningside Drive. Mrs. Poage is the former Scottie Johnston of Decatur, Ga. They have one son, Jonathan, nine months old.