

Winston Professors On Education Panel

Officials of Winston-Salem State University, Wake Forest University and Salem College were panelists at a recent statewide meeting on affirmative action in higher education sponsored by the North Carolina Division of the American Association of University Women.

The meeting was held in Greensboro.

Dr. Janis Somerville, academic dean at Salem; Dr. Rosemarie Patty, assistant professor of psychology at Wake Forest; and Dr. June May, affirmative action officer at Winston-Salem State, were panelists who reported on progress being made in reducing discrimination and devising plans and policies to assure equal future treatment of women and minority employees, faculty members and students. An official of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte was also on the panel.
